Ontario Leader of C.C.F. Denies Wartime Control Caused Liberal Defeats

It is not because of irritation over wartime controls that Canadians have voted against the Liberal government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, E. B. Joffile, leader of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation in Ontario, told an audience of 700 people in the Masonic Temple Friday night.

"It is because Canadians are coming to the conclusion that a Liberal government is not good enough, either for winning the war or winning the peace, Canadians want to do both."

Every seat was taken in the Masonic temple as Joffile, leader of the C.C.F. in Ontario, spoke for over an hour and a half to his audience. A discussion period followed the address.

Chairman of the meeting was W. H. Miller, president of the C.C.F. organization in Edmonton. On the platform with Mr. Joffile and Mr. Miller were Ald. H. D. Ahlqvist, chairman of the C.C.F. provincial council, who introduced the Ontario leader, Clifford Lee, provincial treasurer, and William Irvine, provincial organizer for the party.

Reason for success, Joffile said, Ahlqvist, introducing Mr. Joffile, said recent successes of the C.C.F. were due to the party's drafted and adopted program, which appealed to the people more strongly than has any other political program formulated since Confederation.

"For 24 years, the Liberal party has held no Dominion convention," he said, "but they have tried to keep our policies up to date, and give a voice to real democracy."

Mr. Joffile is leader of the first C.C.F. opposition in the Ontario Legislature.

Premier Says

Plan Revision Of Services by Sub-Treasury

Complete revision and reorganization of the governments' interim program and treasury branch services are now under way, Premier Ernest Manning announced Saturday. Some of the changes, the premier said, are already in effect.

Objective of the changes is threefold, as follows: To simplify administration of treasury branches and the use of treasury branch vouchers; to increase scope of services available to the public through the branches; and to improve the treasury branch service self-supporting.

Complete details of the new plan, as released by Premier Manning, are listed below:

1. To simplify the administration of the treasury branches and the use of treasury branch vouchers, thereby reducing administrative costs, and making it more convenient for individuals and firms to make full use of the treasury branch services.

To this end all of the restrictions against cash accounts and trade claim accounts have been removed, and the purchase of Alberta trade marked goods as a basis of the consumers' bonus is being eliminated. Commencing Sept. 15 each depositor will require but one account irrespective of whether he makes a deposit by cash, cheque or transfer voucher. Against this one account he will be free to issue either cheques or transfer vouchers, or to make cash withdrawals without any restriction.

The elimination of Alberta trade marked goods as a basis of the consumers' bonus, in addition to simplifying the use of transfer vouchers, has been considered expedient in view of the complete change which has taken place in the field of the manufacturing and distribution of consumer goods under existing war time restrictions. The stimulus to the purchase of Alberta trade marked goods in pre-war times resulting from such goods being made the basis of the consumers' bonus, is

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Four-motored Lancaster bombers of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. made the most concentrated attack of the war on Berlin last night, pounding the battered German capital with 50 tons of explosive a minute for 20 minutes.

The third heavy bombardment of Berlin in 12 nights and supplementary thrusts at Rhineland air fields and occupied France cost 22 British bombers.

No Canadian planes were lost, said an R.C.A.F. communiqué in announcing participation by Lancasters of the bomber group.

Other Canadian aircraft attacked targets in northern France and Low Countries.

The German defenses fell off sharply from the intense concentration of fighter planes over the city and anti-aircraft fire along the approaches encountered in previous raids. Airmen at one R.A.F. bomber said they did not see a single German fighter, while the

Board Decision

Some Alberta Miners to Get Increased Pay

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—(CP)—The national war labor board today announced that it has approved pay increases ranging from 5 to 35 cents a day in the basic wages paid to a number of Alberta and British Columbia coal fields, and also a number of increases in contract rates in the same area.

"All increases should be retroactive to May 16, 1943, the board said in advancing the rate to 57 cents as requested by District 18, United Mine Workers of America."

"In the Saunders and Alvo district where the existing rate is $5.58 per day, the conditions of mining and proximity of the mines to the bituminous mine area are such that the board has approved a 35-cent increase as requested by District 18, United Mine Workers of America."

provincial house. He needs no other introduction to this audience," Aid Ainsley declared.

In opening remarks, the Ontario C.C.F. leader noted that this was his first opportunity to speak to an Edmonton audience. "I know times are changing in western Canada as in eastern Canada," he said. "That is the reason the national council of the party meets in Calgary next week."

Referring to the recent Ontario election and the series of by-elections held across the country, they were "somehow of a shock to Ottawa," the speaker declared. "In all the by-elections but those in Quebec, the C.C.F. candidates were elected."

Certain apologists for the Mackenzie King government are busily spreading the word that the Canadian people are groaning and grasping about necessary wartime controls, but the public is unwilling to make sacrifices and is unjustifiably optimistic about the progress of the war.

"It is true that there was a lame excuse for a weak and incompetent government, but this is it," Mr. Joffe said.

"The Australian people have endured far more severe wartime controls than ourselves and have made much heavier sacrifices on both the home front and the fighting fronts. The Australians are not noted for taking anything lying down."

"Yet they have just re-elected their Labor government by a large majority."

"Has it ever occurred to Mr. King and his apologists that a labor government, such as the Curtin government in Australia, has something his government just hasn't got, and never will have?" Mr. Joffe asked.

"There is all the difference in the world between a people's government and a big business government particularly when it comes to uniting all the citizens for the sacrifice of war."

END NOT IN SIGHT

The end of the war is not yet in sight, and few people are so foolish as to assume it will be soon. But it comes nearer every day, and everybody knows that the Liberal government is utterly unprepared for the problems of peace, the speaker declared.

"For those who want a better future, it will not be enough for the government to present a bogus scheme of social security at the last minute, just before the next election. We shall see plenty of social insurance, but there will be no real social security without full employment and full production."

"Neither of these has ever been possible, except in wartime, under the so-called 'free enterprise' system, which is in reality the monopoly enterprise system."

"Social insurance may be a very good thing as far as it goes, but it is no more than insurance. What is the good of having an insurance policy if its basis is no good?"

Sir Ernest Beveridge has said social insurance cannot be maintained unless production is at a high level, and that no country could afford the insurance unless goods and services and employment levels were high. Mr. Joffe said.

"When the Conservatives talk about free enterprise, they mean profitable business shall be in the hands of private enterprise, but unprofitable business shall be in the hands of the government, to be carried by the taxpayers."

"This program, advocated by a

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

All railroads and river valleys lead to Berlin across the flatlands of northern Europe, but this is no easy invasion route to Germany. Only along the French coast have the Nazis concentrated greater defenses as their fear of Allied attack increases. The Germans who swept across the low countries of Netherlands and Belgium in 1940 know full well that mechanized armies can make swift advances here unless impeded by strong defense works. But a continual rain of Allied bombs on Nazi installations here and growing unrest in the low countries and Denmark indicate the coast closest to Berlin may be high on the invasion list.

How could you get around that fact? "Some of the country's best natural resources have been allocated to private industry."

"Don't get the idea the allied voted C.C.F. recently because of rationing or because of gas rationing. The Canadian people are not unaware of such affairs as the expansion of the aluminum monopoly."

"Don't think Canadians are unaware that in other countries, labor has been taken into partnership with the government, but so far in Canada, Don't think Canadians are unaware that agriculture, said to be an essential war industry, is still a neglected and exploited field in Canada."

"Don't think Canadians are unaware that the governments at Ottawa and in many of the provinces have acted as tools of big business."

INSULT TO ELECTORS

It is an insult to electors to say they have voted C.C.F. in protest against wartime restrictions, Mr. Joffe declared.

Speaking of Ontario election results, the provincial leader said his party's vote there had increased by over 300,000, while the Progressive Conservative and Liberal votes declined. The C.C.F. missed a clear majority in the legislature by only four or five per cent of the total vote, he said.

While "amazing support" was received by the C.C.F. from Ontario farmers, in most agricultural ridings its candidates were not elected. The C.C.F. missed a clear majority in the legislature by only four or five per cent of the total vote, he said.

"The farmers were bombarded with propaganda stating that if the C.C.F. got in, farms would be confiscated. It went even further than that. Farmers were told in certain ridings, the speaker said.

"You can't get around the fact that all expansion has been done at the expense of the Canadian people."

"We now rank fourth among the United Nations as an air power and as an industrial power. So far as can be determined by microscopic examination, our government has no policy at all."

"At least, no policy discernible to the Canadian people. If the King government has any plans for making the peace, they are hidden from the people."

"That's not democratic government. Maybe it's one reason the Canadian government has lost the confidence of the people."

"At the beginning of the war, we were a weak country. But as time went on, the British Commonwealth and the United States armed themselves, and Russia went into the conflict. Then our military defects seemed less obvious," Mr. Joffe said.

"At the same time, our political and economic defects began to emerge. We found out early in the war that the profit system was not good enough for total war—we found we couldn't win the war on a profit basis."

"So the government found it necessary to scrap its ideas about 'sound business' in order to get down to winning the war. It was determined that there would be no profiteering, as that leads to too many scandals."

MULTIPLY ASSETS

However, through many ingenious devices, big corporations in the country have been enabled to multiply their assets many times at the expense of the taxpayer. It was said.

areas that everything would be confiscated—even the children and the churches."

"It was likened to Genghis Khan and his tyrannical army. It was said that what the C.C.F. was after was a dictatorship. Coming from a liberal government that hadn't held elections for four years, being told that the government was the custodian of democracy didn't go down well."

There were six seats in the house, long vacant. The government lost every one of these neglected ridings, Mr. Joffe said. "Let that be a lesson to anyone thinking of following the same course," he added.

The leasing of labor in Ontario towards the C.C.F. was described at the meeting. There are now 10 members of the C.C.F. party in the house who are trade unionists. It was stated that the 10 men belong to the American Federation of Labor, the C.I.O., and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

"A great many recognized labor organizations in Ontario have expressed support of our party, nationally and provincially in the past," said the speaker. "In Sudbury, the Liberal party, backed by International Nickel, was defeated by the C.C.F. that had the backing of the second largest union in Ontario."

People all over the country are turning to the C.C.F. program, Mr. Joffe said. They are saying Canada would do better in the war, with the C.C.F. in power, rather than the Liberals, just as the Australians have done under the labor government rather than under a conservative party government.

"As long as the Liberals are in power, it will be a big business war."

"The four western provinces are turning to us. The province of Nova Scotia will surprise people at the next election, and Ontario will elect more dominion members than were elected in the recent provincial election."

SEES C.C.F. MAJORITY

"That will make a C.C.F. majority in the dominion house," the Ontario leader concluded.

"The C.C.F. shows the only way to unity between labor, agriculture, and the progressive-minded middle class—it is the only party that has succeeded in uniting these groups."

War Board Sets Ceiling Prices On Grape Sales

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—(CPI)—The prices board last night announced an order, effective Sept. 4, establishing a ceiling price for the sale of grapes grown in Ontario and British Columbia and for those imported into Canada. The order follows the recent establishment by the board of ceiling prices for peaches, pears and plums.

It set maximum prices for standard six-quart baskets, for standard four-quart baskets, and for standard two-quart baskets. It also provided that a flat packed container must have a flat top cover and contain at least seven pounds of grapes, while the open pack basket must hold at least eight pounds of grapes.

A Letter from Home!

In the presence of a distinguished gathering of military and civilian leaders, as well as thousands of spectators, the magnificent new 2,775-foot suspension bridge costing $1,260,000 over the Peace river between Dawson Creek and Fort St. John was opened Monday. In the above layout are shown scenes at the opening. The top picture shows the tape being cut which officially opened the bridge to traffic. Standing facing the camera, left to right are Brig. Gen. James A. O'Connor, officer commanding the Northwest Service Command, United States Army; Senator James G. Scruggs of Nevada, who gave the dedicatory address; Gen. K. B. Bush, chief of staff, Northwest Service Command; Hon. Herbert Asquith, minister of public works, private at British Columbia; and Maj. Gen. Philip D. Fleming, Washington, D.C., administrator of the Federal Works Agency, who designed the bridge. In the lower picture is shown a view of the bridge with a United States Army military policeman on guard.

A situation in Alberta, inflation uncontrolled is the greatest danger to Canada's war effort and the welfare of the Canadian people. Arthur R. ## Chapter XXX.

We have seen the Russia of the war. What will be the Russia of the peace? Reporting, not prophesying, as my business, but it takes no special gift of foresight to see that Russia, victorious, will be after the war what she was before—Soviet.

To Joseph Stalin, his associates, the Red Army, and the Russian people, after a quarter-century of Soviet rule, there is no question, at least consciously, of any other outcome. Stalin said, November 6, 1941, "There must be no interference whatever in the internal affairs of other nations." On November 6, 1942, he proclaimed, among the aims of the Allies, "the right of every nation to manage its affairs in its own way." To him, there is no doubt but that Russia, left without interference to live its own life, will live it the Soviet way. What kind of Russia does this mean?

Here the prophet trends on the thinnest of ice. Anyone who recalls Russia's 1939 accord with Germany, and then her resistance to German invasion, realizes that she is capable of the most amazing miracle.

Yet, on the basis of her present record, I should say victorious post-war Soviet Russia would be socialist, but not internationally revolutionary; atheistic, but not violently anti-religious; autocratic, but not anti-democratic.

To the Russians, in this case also, there is no question of any other general definition of the future. Take the first point, socialism. The 1938 constitution provides, in article 13, "The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is a socialist state of workers and peasantry, and its economic foundation is the socialist system of economy and socialist ownership of the implements and means of production, firmly established as a result of the liquidation of the capitalist system of economy, the abolition of private ownership of the implements and means of production, of exploitation of man by man."

At no time throughout the war has there been any fundamental change in that constitution or any compromise with private property. Stalin, outlining the period after

"Hurry up! 274 men are hollering for breakfast!"

The first World War and the Russian civil war, said, February 23, 1942: "During these two decades of peaceful construction, there sprang up in our country socialist industry, modern farming, science and culture flourished and the bonds of friendship between the peoples of our country strengthened." Certainly, he foresees further development of the same kind of socialist industry and collective farming after the second World War.

The old bugaboo of world revolution, however, had been killed by Stalin himself long before the war, in his statements that communism was not an export product. If it needed to be buried any deeper, he repeated statements of the policy of non-interference in the domestic affairs of other nations—a policy that applied as much to Soviet satellites as to the nations with which it had relations with the Soviet Union. In other words, Russia, once victorious, would not interfere with other countries and now it has abolished the Communist International.

CASE FOR RELIGION
The case for religion seems clear to record. The Soviet constitution provides, in article 124, "Freedom of religious belief and freedom of conscience are guaranteed to all citizens." But what is more important in this

Carries on Work

The British and Foreign Bible Society is now putting on its annual campaign for funds for the maintenance of its work in the world.

The case for autonomy is less clear. The Soviet constitution provides, in article 124, "Freedom of religious belief and freedom of conscience are guaranteed to all citizens." But what is more important in this

There is a CATCH
There is a catch in the constitution. It grants to all citizens the right of forming public organizations, "and for the most active and politically conscious citizens from the ranks of the workers, of experienced and expert toilers, of uniting in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (Bolsheviks), which is the vanguard of the toilers in their struggle to strengthen the Soviet state and to build a new life for the people."

To say that post-war Russia will be socialist, atheistic, and "autocratic," does not mean that she will be static. Out of so tremendous a struggle, some change must come. No nation undergoes a greater upheaval than Russia after the first World War. But then she was a defeated, disastated power, her structure shattered. After this she should be victorious and satisfying. Her strength is stronger than ever. In anticipation of that, one great change may already be foreseen—a more benevolent regime.

This regime has started to grow mellow with age after twenty-five years of existence. It has been two years with its servants on the ground in the rear during two years of war. It is showing its benevolence in many ways. Some small, almost invisible, but all significant. The days of purges, for example, have ended.

With this kind of post-war Russia will it be possible to co-operate? The answer is that it may be difficult, but it can—and must—be done, if the Allies are to win the peace as well as the war.

In the field of immediate post-war problems, insurance companies and other financial institutions are not to be foreseen. Russia, in fact, as the nation which has suffered most and fought best, has been surprisingly mild in its demands. It has been milder than some of the governments-in-exile of smaller states, which fought for a

City Playgrounds Provide Recreational Facilities

The City of Edmonton is a playground for youth. No matter what the season—spring, summer, autumn or winter, children of the city have a wide choice of outdoor activity. In our parks are swimming pools, skating rinks, swings, slides, sand piles, long reaches of shaded grass, and hundreds of picnic spots for hungry play-seekers.

This year, because of travel restrictions, many Edmonton families that vacation annually in other parts of Canada have stayed at home, and the playgrounds have been full to overflowing. Children tall and children small have played at home, and found there is fun to be had in the park across the street, or around the corner.

The city's Gyro Club years ago developed our first playground, and have created, equipped and operated two others since.

Every year, paid supervisors see to it that no harm comes to youngsters under their supervision. Every year, hundreds of children have trooped from school into the warm summer sun of the Gyro parks. And every fall, these hundreds have trooped back to school, tanned, happier and healthier for having played in the open air, safe from killing traffic and dangerous escapades.

Games, supervised instruction periods, splash parties in clean pools, picnic lunches; birthday parties—all these have been enjoyed by the squealing army of youngsters that played the boisterous days away in the three Gyro parks.

Every child in the city, every parent, every motorist, owes a debt of gratitude to those who planned and built safe play spots for Edmonton's children.

And a strong, healthy band of citizens in the world of tomorrow will pay its own wordless tribute to the foresight of the playground pioneers.—S. A. W.

Promoted Extensive Road Improvements Made in North

An extensive road-improvement program has been carried out on the highway to Dawson Creek, and the work will continue as long as weather conditions permit, the minister stated.

Reconditioning of grade has been carried out from Clyde through Athabasca, eight miles west of Slave Lake; from Jossau to McLean, and from Triangle to 12 miles north of Valleyview on No. 24 highway from Triangle to Grande Prairie.

"We expect to complete grading of the road this year, between a point eight miles west of Slave Lake and Jossau, weather conditions permit," Mr. Fallow said.

MAY START GRAVELLING

If grading of the highway along the south shore of Slave Lake is completed this fall, graveling operations are expected to be undertaken also. Gravel has been placed in varying quantities on the road from Dunvegan to Jossau, and from Jossau to Triangle towards Valleyview for 18 miles.

In addition, the highway has been repaved between Ferry to Rycroft and Spirit River.

Much work has been accomplished in the Peace River and Grande Prairie districts, the minister pointed out particularly on the road from Dunvegan to Rycroft, and from Spirit River to Grande Prairie.

Regrading has been carried out on the Smoky River hills at Watrous, and on the Burnt River Valley, east of Spirit River. From Grimshaw to Nolin, the highway will be gravelled this fall if equipment is available, Mr. Fallow stated.

Edmontonians to Celebrate Last Long Weekend Holiday Before Christmas Season

Canada's last long week-end before Christmas looms over the horizon Saturday, Monday, Sept. 6 is Labor Day, traditionally a one-day holiday in business, industry and offices.

This year, however, the beginning of the fifth year of war brings a change to the Labor Day celebration picture. While offices and stores will close, war industries will carry on—bringing down one day closer to Axis nations that once boasted they could and would rule the world.

Labor Day observance of the first Monday in September can be attributed to the Knights of Labor, a militant organization of workers who paraded in the early 1880s through the streets of New York on that day. Following the Knights' agitation for a holiday, the State of Oregon first declared it to be one.

By 1908, the United States had made Labor Day a legal holiday, and Canada soon followed suit in most of her provinces. The September holiday and May Day became the workers' "big days," were celebrated with meetings, parades, picnics, speeches, and athletic contests.

The coming of war changed the picture once again, and both Labor Day and May Day were dropped from the calendar for the rest of the war.

In Edmonton, as in other Canadian and American cities, the army and navy workers have been working this Monday. For them, no picnic, no parade, no party, no celebration, other than the clatter of machinery forming more ships of war.

On the other hand, government offices, banks, stores, law courts, clubs, offices and most business houses will be closed throughout the day.

skilled street-railway service will operate, and essential maintenance workers will be at their posts. No regular newspaper editions will be published.

Autumn is beginning to issue advance notices of her arrival here with heavy dew, foggy mists in the morning, and yellow petals blowing from the trees in the green of coming winter. The crisp, snappy air presages frost, and autumn.

Opening for 150 Recruits in Sea Cadets

It was announced Saturday by Sea Cadet Lieutenant J. A. Webb recruiting officer for the sea cadets, 1918, that the strength of the corps is to be greatly increased, and that a result there are openings for 150 new recruits.

With the completion of the new drill hall adjoining the naval barracks a fully intensified volume of training will be carried out. Boys in addition to regular squad drill and rifle drill will be given a thorough training in seamanship which includes courses in such subjects as knots and nautical compass and helm work, and boat work.

A complete course in signalling will also be given. There will be special features such as instruction in first aid, lectures on naval customs and traditions, advancements and punishments. During the year the cadets will be shown a number of instructional films in connection with naval training. Arrangements will also be made for the holding of regular classes in rifle shooting.

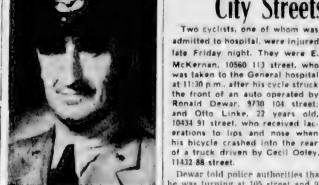

Instructors from the R.C.N.V. will be on hand to assist in giving these many courses, so that the cadets will have an opportunity of getting thorough training in navy work.

The program is designed to train young men in the fine traditions of the naval service, and fit them to become finer citizens.

For those boys interested in hand work the Cadet, H.M. the Able-Commander of Sea Cadet Lt. Harry Courtney has several open spots.

Boys between the ages of 13 and 17 inclusive, who are in good health, and who are willing to accept the required physical standards, are eligible for enlistment. Those wishing further information on the cadet work may contact Sea Cadet Lt. Webb at the naval barracks at 1922 102nd street, on Tuesday or Friday evenings between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. This being the coming year of a new training season it is hoped that those interested in joining the navy will apply immediately. Those who are given their medical examination immediately and if found physically fit will then be issued with their uniforms.

To Speak Here Two Cyclists Are Injured in City Streets

Two cyclists, one of whom was admitted to hospital, were injured late Friday night. They were E. McKernan, 10860 113 street, who was taken to the General Hospital at 11:30 p.m. after his crash, struck the front of an auto operated by Ronald Dewar, 3730 104 street, and Otto Linke, 23 years old, 10831 51 street, who received lacerations to lips and nose when his bicycle crashed into the rear of a truck driven by Cecil Oles, 11432 88 street.

Dewar told police authorities that he was turning at 103 street and 32 avenue, after signalling a turn, when McKernan riding a bicycle, hit the front of the auto. There were no lights on the cyclist, continued Dewar. He stopped and examined the cyclist who asked to be taken home. The cyclist refused to go to hospital, where he stated that the brakes on his machine were not good.

Oles said he had been following a truck which, upon reaching 110 street and 104 avenue, about 11:30 p.m., moved to the left as he was passing. He continued to follow then moving to the left as he was, and in so doing, saw Linke approaching from the west on a bicycle.

Believing that the cyclist had been in a hurry, he continued to drive on, he said. When he heard a crash at the rear of the truck, he stopped, to find that Linke had collided with the truck and had been thrown to the pavement.

Linke stated that he saw the first truck, which he passed, and then saw the second truck, which he also passed. He stated that he saw the cyclist, who was riding a bicycle, and that he saw him fall.

Scattered Showers

Edmonton citizens made time to work this morning in a steady downpour of rain. Several times throughout the night some rain fell but there was only a trace of precipitation registered at 6:30 a.m. All hope for fine weather will be shattered by the forecast of mostly cloudy with scattered showers.

The rain will probably cancel a lot of plans for the long holiday week-end. All hope for fine weather will be shattered by the forecast of mostly cloudy with scattered showers.

Musicians Prepare for Exceptionally Active Season

Throughout Civilized World Service Men, War Workers Derive Comfort From Art

By JOHN OLIVER

Music is enjoying one of its greatest booms in history. True, ever since the primitive inhabitants of the mortal soil commenced their rudimentary rhythmic tapping on the stretched skins of animals, music has been an integral part of the everyday life of the people of the world. But in these days of globe-girdling war, with civilization being torn down in cradles of culture, music more than ever is considered a necessity.

Throughout the centuries music has inspired fighting men to rise above and surmount all obstacles, even as in seafaring. It has guided them to exalted material and spiritual heights. But today, when civilization trembles in the balance over a greater portion of the globe, even than during Hitler's music is providing a sanctuary for the mind and soul for the men on the fighting fighting fronts and the civilians on the production lines at home.

Special appeals have been and continue to be made to provide the men to higher efforts and to insure service men with music. Private organizations send transferred music to army, navy and air force camps. The governments provide carefully-prepared and varied types of programs for dissemination of the art to the men who cannot attend "live talent" performances.

Music is being given in camps, cantons and at other points where service men gather. Music referred to the jitterbugs and through its intense strain to the symphonic mould, is supplied to stimulate the men to higher efforts and to insure all in a short time. In other words, it is the most interesting way of teaching beginners and, by the way, this is applicable to adults as well as children.

If every student, in addition to private students, had at least one class of 10 beginners, just think of the number of beginners that would be in one year. The more who begin, the larger the percentage of those who will desire to continue with private lessons. The rapid rate at which new students is increasing, will make for a tremendous revival of interest in playing the piano.

The teacher who still thinks that those who teach group instruction are ignoring the private teachers would better wake up to the fact before it is too late, that they are really making more students for all teachers and that he himself, should get busy and learn how to teach piano classes.

A SPECIALIST
The teacher who is worth while will take the position of a specialist in more advanced playing with the mind's apparatus, while the former drudgery of the early work is carried on in class.

This city is fortunate in that it has many music teachers, whose ability has been demonstrated on many occasions and with many pupils.

There are many accomplished teachers of piano, violin and other instruments, as well as of the voice. Mentioned in succeeding paragraphs are some who have given musical service to music and who have shown, by requests received, that they are worthy of consideration when a teacher is being selected.

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

ON the threshold of a new season, Edmonton music lovers are peering into the future in expectation of enjoying one of the most colorful, enlightening and entertaining series of events in any one stretch of this city's history.

Students, teachers, and the majority of the city's population, during July and August, have been enjoying the activities of the Edmonton Music Festival. The festival, which was either well planned or well executed, has been a success in many respects. It has provided a constant diet of the classics, and has given the public a chance to see and hear some of the finest musicians in the world. The festival has also provided a chance for the public to see and hear some of the finest musicians in the world.

It is expected that tickets will be mailed to subscribers by Sept. 15. Mrs. Meaden will open the box office at Heintzman and Company's store on Sept. 27. There will be a limited number of seats for each concert, including 74 in the chancel of the church.

Plans for the regular meetings of the Women's Musical Club have not yet been drawn. It is expected that the executive will meet in an early day. While executive members have been discussing attention to the festival, a definite program for the season has not been approved.

At an early date, Mrs. Carmichael, general musical director of the Edmonton Music Festival, has returned from her annual vacation. She is expected to return to the festival in the near future. She is expected to return to the festival in the near future. She is expected to return to the festival in the near future.

Looking far into the future to the time when the festival will be a permanent institution, it is not surprising that the festival is being planned with a view to making it a permanent institution. That there will be great student activity goes without saying. One only has to recall the lengthy lists of successful students in the past to realize that the festival is a great success. It is not surprising that the festival is being planned with a view to making it a permanent institution.

In the matter of public events, the Edmonton Music Festival is a great success. It is not surprising that the festival is being planned with a view to making it a permanent institution. It is not surprising that the festival is being planned with a view to making it a permanent institution.

The second concert will be Friday, Nov. 5, when Yehudi Menuhin will make his Edmonton debut. Thomas L. Thomas, pianist, will be the third attraction, on Saturday, Nov. 6. Anne Brown, soprano, will be the fourth attraction, on Sunday, Nov. 7. Arthur Rubinstein, pianist, will be the fifth attraction, on Monday, Nov. 8. GET IT A WOODWARD'S

Unlocking Adventure

By CHARLES COURTEY

CHAPTER VII
I WAS out of a job. A few months after the Armistice the dry docks were dead as a graveyard. This seemed the time to go into my own business, but the money had been spent on my family that now included a daughter and a baby son. So I stood in the hiring line again, but there was no work in New York. Every week our bank balance dwindled. Finally we had to make a decision: should I take what was left and hunt in some other city, or should I risk everything and open my own shop on the chance that I could make a living at the work that I had always intended to do?

In that first shop I learned the business, and I learned people. Locksmiths fit into the scheme of modern life somewhere between confidential lawyers, detectives, firemen, and police. We are called on missions to open safes or doors that more often than not are involved in dramatic conflicts in people's secret lives. Jobs in which much depends on our trustworthiness and discretion. We must be ready to answer emergency calls with the speed of the police, because we can never be sure whether they are real emergencies—people suffocating in storage vaults—or only inconveniences—a key locked inside when some woman has taken the dog to walk. Both are likely to have the same urgency over the telephone.

Sometimes I panted from one emergency to another. A rush call came from a drugstore three blocks away: a man's agitated voice begged me to come quickly and save his children. While I was collecting my tools, the telephone rang again: a woman was locked out of her house and must get in immediately. They were both in the same direction so I went to the drugstore first. On the corner a policeman was keeping the people moving. There were no signs of an accident, but a man stood at the back of a closed sedan, picking nervously at the trunk with his fingers.

"Does someone want a locksmith?" asked the officer. He grabbed my arm and pushed me to the car. "Here, open the back compartment." The man gripped his hands and quaked in case that I could hardly use my elbows. "What's the special case?" "My babies are in there," he groaned. "They're dying and I've lost the key."

I attacked the lock with all the speed that I could muster, holding my breath, listening for any sound. "Keep cool," I kept telling myself. "Keep cool and you'll work faster." Every once in a while I would have to push back the father, who edged so close that I could feel his breathing on my neck. In a few minutes the lock gave. I lifted up the top and there lay two babies, a boy and a girl, with their arms around each other fast asleep.

Almost as limp as the father, I picked up my tools and went on to the second call, which was only a few blocks away. At the corner a few children stood by, following me and the trunk and ladder and all the outfit. By the time I had reached the middle of the block and began to look for the number, the street was black with people and the police were clearing them away. The firemen were jumping down at my number. Pushing through the lines, I told a policeman that I had been called "rush" and wanted to go alone, so I ran up the steps behind the firemen who had already burst the door. A determined-looking woman led us through the hall for the number, and the door, once opened, it and pulled out a roasting pan in which lay a goose done to a golden brown.

"Thank heaven," she gasped. "I was afraid it would burn. The fire department is so nice. I knew you would help me, and I couldn't wait for a locksmith. I thought he would never come."

Since time was my chief capital, I had to rely on my ingenuity to find short cuts. One of them was a way of making keys for the most complicated locks without taking them apart. It could be done by looking into the keyway and gauging the tumblers with my eye. This was more difficult than memorizing a key at a glance and copying it without examination, a trick which I often mystify my clients.

Clients occasionally brought me problems that could not be solved by locks and keys. My most ingenious device was contrived for the use of one lone customer, but my friends tell me that it has limitless possibilities. This man also was well liked, a thief could take the very pillow under his head, so he was at decided disadvantage when his wife rifled his pockets. He had exhausted his own ingenuity, but a little mouse in his pocket frightened her, put clasp something like zippers in the pockets of three pairs of trousers and connected them with a small storage battery wired in a belt. When the clasp was opened, the bell rang, the man was awakened and could take what action he thought best. After several months his wife found it impossible to disconcert the bell. Next, I tried an invisible rubber band that, when it was stretched, pulled a wire. This must have been successful, for my client never returned.

Alberta Schools Have Fine Record

The schools of agriculture and home economics were re-established in Alberta in 1913. They have a splendid record of service to the rural life of the province through the training of about 6000 young men and women for more useful and efficient life on the farm.

The next regular term will open at the School of Agriculture, Olds, on Tuesday, Oct. 12. This is an opportunity for farm boys and girls to acquire a training that will be of great value to them in their future careers as farmers and homemakers. A large attendance is expected, and applications for entrance should be made in good time before the opening date.

The school is supported by the Alberta government and is directed by the department of agriculture. Two separate courses are provided, one in agriculture for young men who intend to engage in practical agriculture, and one in home economics and household management for young women. These courses are an excellent background for more advanced study as well.

GRAPE

"O how good!" cried YELLOW-haired Nasty May, holding one PURPLE grape to her mouth and holding a big bunch of grapes at arm's length. "I know it tastes as good as it looks!" The grape vine was BROWN with dark and light GREEN leaves and big bunches of dark PURPLE grapes (the darker leaves are shaded). The vine grew on a YELLOW hillside and looked very pretty against the clear BLUE sky. Nasty May wore a light PURPLE frock and panties, her socks were darker PURPLE like her tie and the ribbon on her wrist. Nasty May loved to tie the ribbon on her wrist. At a branch, Nasty May wore a YELLOW sash and reached the grapes and she placed the ladder on the GREEN grass. There was a plant blooming in the garden. It had dark GREEN leaves and PINK (use light) flowers. Nasty May's cheeks were PINK as the flowers. The border and the lettering of this picture can be colored YELLOW.
